HARDEST HIT AS FLOODS STRIKE DIXIE. With a flood crest of 52 feet swirling through its streets, Columbia, Tenn., became the hardest hit town in middle Tennessee. The present flood of the Duck river at Columbia, exceeding previous record of 48 feet set in 1902, wrecked the waterworks and caused evacuation of 160 families. It cut off all traffic between Nashville and Birmingham. In foreground, looking like a canal, can be seen U. S. highway 41. (International Soundphoto)

PRES. TRUMAN TO ASK AID FOR GREEKS, TURKS

Informs Congress He Needs More Money To Fight Communism.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16—President Truman told congress today he will ask for more money for military assistance for Greece and Turkey.

Mr. Truman gave this word to the legislators in a report on use of the $400,000,000 they voted last year to help the Greeks and Turks resist Communism.

He did not say how much more will be asked.

Last years fund was $300,000,000 for Greece and $100,000,000 for Turkey.

In a letter sent to congress with the report on use of their money the President said Greece has been subjected "to ever higher increasing pressure" by a Communist minority subservient to foreign influences."

Russia Not Named

There was no mention of Russia by name, or of the Russian satellites in the Balkans.

Greek Communist guerrilla forces reportedly have drawn aid from Greece's Communist-dominated neighbors.

Mr. Truman said economic assistance can be given Greece under the proposed European recovery program.

He added:

"The European recovery program will not provide, however, for any additional military assistance required for Greece and Turkey, which will, at the appropriate time, be sought from the congress under public law 75."

Public law 75 is the one under which Greek-Turkish and funds were voted last year.

Report on Greece

The President said of the situation in Greece:

"It is significant that the guerrilla warfare is directed not against the Greek army but against the people of Greece. The deliberate and wanton destruction of Greek villages does not result from military engagements. It is determined and ruthless destruction intended to render people homeless and drive them from the soil; to force them into overcrowded urban centers where they become charges of an already overburdened state, and to create for them conditions of misery and hardship in the hope that this will make them susceptible to political agitation."

Mr. Truman said the guerrilla bands "which traffic in human misery and chaos" are too small to be "truly representative" of any large part of the Greek population.

He said they total about 20,000 and a large proportion of these were forced into "the guerrilla ranks under threat of death to themselves and their families."

He said, however, that the Communist policy "is sapping the economic strength" of Greece while the American mission for aid to that country is seeking to build it up.

Edge on Dewey Seen for Taft

Backers Say Midwest and South Will Put Him Ahead in Early Balloting.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Feb. 16—Backers of Senator Taft (R-Ohio) claimed today enough midwestern and southern strength to put their candidate there of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey on early balloting at the June GOP nominating convention.

Taft scheduling a brief stopover here on his return to Washington from a six-state tour, carefully avoided making any delegate claims.

But supporters said they are confident from what they learned in Illinois, Indiana, Minnesota, Nebraska, Iowa and Colorado the Ohioan will get the major share of that sections votes at Philadelphia.

The six states will send 163 delegates to the convention. Taft's lieutenants think he will get a minimum of 100 of these in the early balloting.

At the same time they are claiming nearly 150 delegates from nine southern and border states. In this area they say they have top strength in Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Louisiana, Missouri, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Texas and Virginia.

If Taft gets all or most of Ohio's 53 delegates in that state's May 4 primary contest with former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, the senator's backers say he thus will have a backlog of about 300 votes.

They note this does not take into account strength they say he has in Pennsylvania, with 73 votes, and in the far west and New England, where they credit him with scattered backing. The Taft camp is planning an intensive campaign in the midwest section he just covered.

This drive will be centered around Nebraska. There the Ohioan's friends hope to carry the April 13 preferential primary and thus influence the state's 15 delegates in his direction.

Before he left Denver yesterday, Taft told a news conference he thinks his chances in the six midwestern states are "extremely encouraging."

CARDINAL DEAN DIES IN VATICAN AT AGE OF 96

Prince of Church and State Was Oldest Member of College of Cardinals.

By The Associated Press

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 16—Gennaro Cardinal Granito Pignatelli Di Belmonte, 96, second only to Pope Pius XII in the hierarchy of the Roman Catholic church, died today of a bladder ailment complicated by old age.

Cardinal Pignatelli, who was a prince of the Italian aristocracy as well as a prince of the church, expired at 10:13 a. m. (4:13 a. m. EST) in his simply furnished apartment in the historic Vatican Church of Santa Martha.

He had known five Popes in his long life and had been an intimate of the present pontiff and his predecessor. He had been dean of the College of Cardinals for nearly 18 years.

Francesco Cardinal Marchetti-Selvaggiani, 76 bishop of Frascati, vicar general of Rome and archpriest of the Basilica of St. John Lateran, succeeds Cardinal Pignatelli as cardinal dean. Cardinal Marchetti-Silvaggiani, a native of Rome, has been a cardinal since June 30, 1930.

Cardinal Pignatelli, bishop of Albano and Ostia, was in charge of arranging all pontifical ceremonies as prefect of the Congregation of Ceremonies.

His death reduced the membership of the College of Cardinals to 60. Its full strength is 70.

Cardinal Pignatelli, was stricken last week. Because of his great age little hope had been held for his recovery.

Pope Pius visited him last Saturday and gave his blessing and a message of sympathy. Extreme unction also was administered Saturday. He fell into a coma last night.

The prelate, as Prince of Belmont, was a member of the Italian aristocracy. As Count of Copertino he held a place in the society of his native Naples before many of his brother cardinals were born.

Cardinal Pignatelli, who would have been 97 years old on April 10, was the last surviving cardinal created by Pope Pius X.

Born in Naples in 1851 he had been a cardinal nearly 37 years.

He was ordained a priest in 1879, at the comparatively advanced age of 28. After his ordination he had a long career as a Vatican diplomat. He served as Counselor of the Nunciature in Paris for a period of years and in 1899 was elevated to be titular archbishop of Edessa and at the same time was made Papal Nuncio to Belgium. In 1904 he went to Vienna as Nuncio, remaining there until he became a cardinal on Nov. 27, 1911.

As dean of the College of Cardinals, he presided over its sessions and led the college to the pontiff each Christmas eve to extend Christmas greetings.

As a young man he had been noted for his handsomeness and after the years took their toll he remained marked for his graceful carriage and his sparkling wit.

In his lifetime he had known Pope Leo XII, Pius X, Benedict VI, Pius XII and the present pontiff.

NAMED SURGEON GENERAL. President Truman has selected Dr. Leonard A. Scheele (above) to be surgeon general of the U. S. public health service, the White House has announced. He will succeed Dr. Thomas Parran, whose term expires on April 6. Scheele now is an assistant surgeon general and director of the national cancer institute. (Associated Press Wirephoto)

SAYS AMERICA NOT PREPARED

Gen. Eisenhower, in Final Report, Declares World Communism on March.

By The United Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16—The international facts of life as Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower sees them are that communism is on the march, war is always possible, and this country is not prepared to defend itself.

In his last report as army chief of staff, made public last night, Eisenhower foresaw no planned attack on the United States in the immediate future. But unplanned war, world tensions being what they are, could break out any time and, Eisenhower said, this country is not ready for it.

On the credit side of peace Eisenhower said "the defeat of the democracies, joined in common defense, would be a formidable task for any power." He said that "in case of early war," the democracies would exercise almost complete control of the ocean and, between them, the transoceanic airways. He also said a potential aggressor would hesitate to launch an attack that would provoke a "coordinated response."

"By no stretch of the facts can the United States Army, as it is now manned, deployed and engaged, be considered an offensive force," he said.

'TRIANGLE' ENDS IN GUN BATTLE AT APARTMENT

Couple Wounded by "Common Law" Husband, Who Kills Self.

A young Marion woman is in critical condition today at City hospital, a man named by police as her "common law" husband is dead and another man wounded following an attempted murder and suicide on Hocking street last night.

Dead is Haywood Ray, 24, of 733½ Fairfield street, a laborer. Shot through the head and in critical condition is Marie Robinson, 17, of 606 Hocking street. Also in the hospital is Laval Hemphill, 28, also of 606 Hocking street, shot through the shoulder. All are Negroes.

Ray shot the woman and wounded Hemphill after finding them in her rooms above the Shantytown Grill on Hocking street about midnight, according to the report made by the police. He was found dead several hours later in the yard a short distance from the grill by officers who conducted a search following the shooting. Police said he had shot himself through the head.

Police Chief William E. Marks said that according to information given him, the woman and Ray had been living together until several months ago when they separated, she taking rooms above the grill.

Chief Marks said officers received a telephone call from the Shantytown Grill at 12:10 a. m. reporting that a woman had been shot.

Woman Found in Hall

When officers arrived at the Grill they found Marie Robinson lying in the hallway outside her rooms on the second floor. Ray and Hemphill were not there.

According to information given police, Ray entered the grill and went upstairs about midnight. Entering the room he ordered Marie Robinson and Hemphill to get dressed, saying he was going to shoot them both.

As the women attempted to leave the room, carrying her three-month-old baby, Ray pulled out a .38 revolver and shot her through the head as she entered the hall.

Today the baby is safe in care of Mrs. Velma Keuchler, wife of the porprietor of the grill. According to the account of the shooting given police by Mrs. Keuchler, Marie Robinson had stepped into the hall when Ray shot her. Hearing the shot, Mrs. Keuchler who occupied an adjoining room, opened her door into the hallway. Grabbing the baby from the felled woman's arms she retired to her room as Ray chased Hemphill down the stairs. She said the man fired a shot at her as she reached for the baby.

Hemphill Hit in Shoulder

Hemphill fled downstairs and out into the street. On the way down he was winged in the shoulder by Ray, who emptied his gun at the fleeing man.

Hemphill making good his escape, fled to a nearby residence and called for an ambulance. Bastian-Uncapher answered the call and removed him to the hospital.

Ray meanwhile had disappeared. Police after calling an ambulance for Marie Robinson, began to search the neighborhood. Capt. Ora DeWees, and Patrolman John Richardson, Alfred Kohbarger and Harold Morris conducted the hunt for the armed man.

Reports Hearing Shot

Several hours later Charles Brooks of 753 Fairfield street reported to police that he heard a shot somewhere in back of his house.

Officers turning their search to that neighborhood, found Ray's body at 5:55 a. m. It was lying near the rear of a small shed between the Brooks home and Kenton avenue with a bullet hole in the forehead and the revolver beside it. His body was taken to the Uncapher-Bastian Funeral Home.

Dr. E. H. Morgan, coroner, gave a verdict of suicide.

Marie Robinson, taken to the hospital in the Gunder ambulance was treated by Dr. Martin M. Weinbaum, who also attended Hemphill. The woman's condition was reported today by the hospital as fair.

RISING OHIO CLAIMS VICTIM

17-Year-Old Boatman Falls Off Barge, Believed Drowned.

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Feb. 16—A 17-year-old boat crewman was missing and believed drowned today as the rising Ohio river edged toward a predicted 55-foot crest, three feet above flood stage.

The coast guard said John E. Turner Jr., of Forest City, Ark., apparently fell from a barge being towed downstream by the towboat Edward B. Warner about 12:5 a. m. today.

Coast guardsmen said other members of the boat crew reported young Turner lost his balance, dropped into the swift-moving, muddy water and was not seen again.

Navigation's first victim of the first threatened Ohio river flood since 1945 was a 130-foot dock boat owned by the Tresler Oil Co. which sank in the river shortly before last midnight. The loss

ARREST CIO OFFICIAL AS ALIEN COMMUNIST

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16—Federal agents today arrested Ferdinand Christafer Smith, national secretary of the CIO National Maritime Union, as an alien communist.

Smith, a native of Jamaica, British West Indies, was removed to Ellis island without bond for deportation proceedings, the justice department announced.

The arrest was made by immigration service officials and FBI agents when Smith left his home in New York City, this morning, the announcement said.

The warrant charged he entered the country without visa, and had lived before and after his entry, a member of an organization advocating the overthrow of the government of the United States by force and violence."

The department said that Smith has been active for years in behalf of the Communist party, and was a long-time member of the party.

He apparently first entered this country as a seaman at New Orleans about June 11, 1919, and thereafter remained here for many years, it was stated.

High Water Receding Here

Still Blocked Are Roads Bordering Scioto and Little Scioto Rivers.

High water from the Scioto and Little Scioto rivers which late Saturday and yesterday blocked a number of county roads was receding today according to County Engineer Walter W. Johnson.

Still blocked in spots however is county road 38 which borders the Scioto between LaRue and Green Camp. Others blocked late Saturday and for several hours Sunday are now open, the county engineer said.

Saturday afternoon the ice clogged Little Scioto went over its banks at the Hillman-Ford road bridge blocking that road until yesterday when the water receded.

The high water deposited several huge blocks of ice over the road in that section. Officials were considering dynamiting the jammed ice in that section of the river to release the water, but the jam apparently broke loose of its own accord with a subsequent lowering of the water, it was reported.

Other county roads northwest of Marion blocked for a time late Saturday and yesterday were county roads 66 and 26. Both are reported free of water today, Mr. Johnson said.

Route 95 was under water in two places Sunday at LaRue and at a spot between LaRue and New Bloomington along the Scioto. Several other county roads including some in the Prospect area along the Scioto were reported under water Saturday afternoon and Sunday.

Mr. Johnson said the peak apparently was reached late Saturday and early Sunday and that waters were reported receding.

The state highway department however listed these state routes still closed by high water: State routes 15 between Findlay and Carey, 95 west of Perrysville and at Lakefork, 302 north of U. S. route 30, 77 south of Warsaw also north of route U. S. 36, U. S. 36 west of route 715; 206 at Walhonding; 312 at Freeman; 21 south and north of Cambridge.

LIFE OF GAS VICTIM SAVED

Wife Finds Universal Ave. Man Unconscious; Inhalator Used.

William John Jenner, 32, of 549 Universal avenue, narrowly escaped death from carbon monoxide asphyxiation yesterday when the doors of his garage were blown shut by the wind as he worked under his car with the motor running.

He was found unconscious in the garage at 6:20 p. m. by his wife, Dorothy, who went to summon him for the evening meal. He had been absent from the house over two hours, having gone to repair the car.

Mrs. Jenner opened the garage doors and finding her husband unconscious beneath the car, dragged him into the open air, reentered the garage, and shut off the car motor. She then ran across the street to the home of Merlin Mitton, a city policeman, to summon help. Mrs. Mitton rushed to the home of a neighbor to notify the police department, and Mitton, who was off duty, returned with Mrs. Jenner to the garage to give first aid to Jenner.

Police headquarters received the call at 6:48 p. m. and immediately forwarded it to the fire department, since the call had come to police as a fire alarm. Firemen from Central and Mark Street stations responded at 6:49 p. m.

Firemen immediately applied inhalator treatment to Jenner and summoned the Uncapher-Bastian ambulance. After the inhalator had been used for five minutes the ambulance arrived and removed him to City hospital, where he regained consciousness at 10 p. m. His condition was described this morning as "fair."

He will remain at the hospital for an indefinite period for treatment to offset possible complications resulting from the accident, hospital attaches reported.

GRAINS CONTINUE ON UPWARD RALLY

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 16—Grains opened higher in Chicago today, continuing a rally begun Saturday.

Other major commodities in the nation's markets also were strong. New York stock market prices were slightly higher in relatively light trading.

Retail food stores continued to feature lower meat prices, but government and livestock experts warned that these price cuts may not stick because of shortages due later in the year.

Wheat, bellwether of the food commodity markets, opened two to four cents a bushel higher in Chicago. Corn was up similarly and oats up slightly less. Soybeans, which have sagged the most since the big price break which began 13 days ago, also were up.

Hogs were higher at Chicago in trading which was unexpectedly light.

Cotton was up between $1 and $2 a bale in New York and New Orleans. Cottonseed oil and hides also were up slightly, but rubber fell down a bit.

Economists Say Prices Won't Decline To Pre-War Levels

By The United Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16—Four Washington economists agreed today that while grocery prices are going down, they probably never again—in foreseeable time—will reach their pre-war levels.

Too many basic factors have changed since the pre-war years, there economists told the United Press. And so, there is little likelihood of again getting $1.25 wheat, 50-cent steak or 50-cent butter.

All agreed that the lady of the family will get a better buy for her shopping dollar in the next few weeks than she did last month. Prices, they predicted, will not again rise to their December-January highs, but on the other hand, they probably never again will look like 1929-1932 or 1935-1939 prices.

The economists questioned included Robert Nathan, former deputy director of the office of war mobilization and reconversion; John Lee Coulter, who was a member of the U. S. tariff commission between 1930 and 1935, and two others who were willing to give their views, but not their names, for publication.

All Independent Economists

One was an economist for the war production board and the civilian production administration. The second was, up to 15 years ago, a research and economic adviser in the department of commerce. None of the four now has a job with the federal government, but each is on his own as an economic consultant.

Nathan recently did two surveys for labor—one of them, for the CIO, said either wages should be increased or prices brought down. He now represents a number of business firms and is an economic consultant to the French government.

Coulter is an economic consultant to a number of industrial and agricultural organizations. He does not represent any organized labor group. The other economists are retained by business houses, trade organizations and the like.

The highlights of their views may be summarized as follows:

▶All agree that the housewife

Marine Recruiters Here for Four Days

S/Sgt. Charles C. Allen and Sgt. Jim S. Greene, of the Marine Corps recruiting headquarters in Cleveland, opened a Marine recruiting campaign here this morning with an office in the Marion postoffice building as recruiting headquarters. The recruiters will be here through Thursday of this week.

All men between 17 and 29 years of age are invited to visit the sergeants and learn about the advantages of enlistment with the Marines.

Regulations now permit former Marines to reenlist and retain part of their former rank, provided they have not been discharged more than two years, S/Sgt. Allen states.

Duty is offered in many parts of the world and technical school training in many fields is available to successful enlistees.

AUTHORIZES INCREASE IN RAIL PASSENGER FARES

By The United Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16—The interstate commerce commission today authorized western and southern railroads to increase their passenger coach fares 13.63 per cent.

The increase, which can be put into effect on five days notice, will boost the one-way coach fare from 2.2 to 2.5 cents a mile with proportionate increase in round-trip fares.

No first class fares were affected by today's order. All railroads last year received increase of 6.06 per cent in first class fares.

Brawls, Gunfire Mark Taxi Drivers' Strike

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 16 — A street corner brawl and gunfire marked the start of a strike of 1,100 drivers of the Yellow Cab Co.

Mayor David L. Lawrence yesterday ordered full police protection for all cabs answering emergency calls after a brawl had been reported on a downtown street corner.

RUSSIANS SET UP NORTH KOREAN RULE

By The Associated Press

SEOUL, Feb. 16—A high American official said today a Russian puppet government had been established in North Korea. He declared it had an army, a flag and a constitution—in open defiance of international agreements.

The official charged establishment of the government was timed to coincide with the United Nations commission's recent announcement of failure of its mission to Korea.

He made his charges at a news conference, but asked that he not be named.

Russian occupational officials are charged with governing north Korea. Americans administer south Korea.

The UN commission was refused entry into the Russian zone to plan nationwide elections preliminary to giving Korea self government. Chairman K. P. S. Menon is to report the commission's failure to the assembly next week.

The American source said "we have ample information" that an army estimated at 200,000 north Koreans is equipped with Russian materials, medium tanks and light planes.

QUADRUPLETS GET EXPERT ATTENTION. Nurses attend newly born Zavada quadruplets in Latrobe hospital, Latrobe, Pa., after the babies were delivered by Caesarean section. Dr. J. Wiley Hartman, chief obstetrician, said the quads and their blond mother, Mrs. Andrew Zavada, "seem to be doing fine." Two of the babies are in incubator in foreground. Quadruplets Born To Wife Of Pennsylvania Steelworker

By The Associated Press

LATROBE, Pa., Feb. 16—The Zavada quadruplets—three girls and a boy whose coming was forecast by X-ray last November—entered their second day of life today, apparently "doing just fine."

The babies, not expected until April, were delivered by Caesarean section yesterday to Mrs. Barbara Wagner Zavada, 26-year-old wife of a metal works inspector.

The four infants, weighing a total of 13½ pounds, were born within five minutes while their father, Andrew, 35, mopped his brow in the waiting room of the Latrobe General hospital.

Dr. J. Wiley Hartman, chief obstretician, who attended Mrs. Zavada aided by four other doctors, said the boy was delivered first, just 15 minutes after Mrs. Zavada had been wheeled into the operating room.

A half hour after the babies' birth, Father Theodore Hodobay of St. Mary's Greek Catholic church came to the hospital to christen the children John Michael, Bernadette Elizabeth, Barbara Rose and Anna Mary.

Only One Disappointed

The only disappointed person in Latrobe today apparently was five-year-old Larry Dale McBryer, Mrs. Zavada's son by a previous marriage, who had expected his mother to bring him two brothers and two sisters.

Mrs. Zavada's first husband, Harold McBryer, was killed in the Normandy invasion in 1944. She married Zavada in August, 1946.

Zavada, a $48-a-week factory worker, today had to stretch the family budget to include the quadruplets.

Zavada, 35, stayed home from his job as inspector and packer at the Latrobe Die Casting company today. He said he had to rest up from the 40 hours he spent without sleep prior to the birth of the children.

John Michael Zavada, the first born, arrived at 1:31 a. m. he weighed 3½ pounds. The three girls described as identical triplets, were born one minute apart, Anna Mary, 3¾ pounds, Barbara Rose, 3¼ pounds, and Bernadette Elizabeth, 3 pounds.

The quadruplets were placed in four incubators. Each was fed a thimbleful of dextrose and water.

Problem of Housing

Two pints of blood were given to the mother "to improve her general condition," but she was reported in no danger.

"The babies have a good chance of survival," Dr. Hartman said.

In addition to worrying over his family's budget, Zavada has a housing shortage. The family has been living in a five-room duplex apartment.

"But I'm not worried," Zavada said. "I'm not the first guy to go through a thing like this."

He was a little worried though about getting enough cigars to pass around.

"Everybody at the shop will want a cigar," he said, "and 125 guys work there."

FLOOD

was estimated unofficially at $50,000.

The weather bureau said the predicted 55-foot crest "will cause little damage." The stage at 10 a. m. was 49.4 feet.

River forecaster George Marth said "only heavy rainfall" would bring higher water "and we can't see any rain for at least 36 hours, if then."

Flood conditions are in prospect for upriver points tonight and tomorrow.

The Ohio river passed the 50-foot flood stage at Portsmouth early today after a swift rise from a 12-foot pool depth Friday.

However, little danger was seen of dangerous stages. The rise continued at a rate of .15 feet an hour, but Portsmouth and neighboring New Boston, under an arrangement worked out only last week, will be protected to a 65-foot stage if necessary by sandbagging a portion of the Norfolk & Western railroad yards and the Portsmouth Steel Co. property.

VOTES MONTHLY EXTENSION

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16—The house banking committee voted 18 to 5 today to extend present rent controls one month beyond the Feb. 29 expiration date. The committee rejected successive proposals for extension of one year or six months, but Chairman Wolcott (R-Mich.) said: "I want it distinctly understood that this was not done with any idea of killing rent controls."

ASK MORE PEOPLE ON OLD AGE PENSIONS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. [illegible]—The Truman administration [illegible] drew with congressional [illegible] more people quickly into old age pensions.

And Rep. Kean (R-NJ) [illegible] lined his own plan to add [illegible],000 workers to the [illegible].

The administration [illegible] further. It said the government needs a program [illegible] for the [illegible] rises to economic independence, including [illegible] and medical care insurance.

This objective was outlined in the annual report of the social security administration. President Truman is expected to [illegible] it up shortly with his promised special message on the subject.

Keen has drafted a [illegible] to carry out his ideas. He told newsmen it actually will save the government money in the long run.

His plan is to make the self-employed, including farmers and small businessmen, eligible for old age pensions under the social security system. Domestic workers, farm hands and others would be included, too. So would state and local government workers, if the state so desired.

All told, some 60,000,000 people would be covered, compared with the 40,000,000 now.

NEA SAYS SCHOOL FUNDS INADEQUATE

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16—The National Education Association said today school support is "grossly inadequate" and schooling opportunities "shamefully" unequal.

An association survey reported school boards face "almost insuperable financial problems," because they have 20 per cent less buying power than before the war.

Willard E. Givens, the NEA's executive secretary, noted bills are in congress to give $300,000,000 in federal aid to needy school districts.

But Dr. John K. Norton, one of the survey leaders, esumated it would cost about $600,000,000 a year to bring per-pupil expenditures in all states up to at least $99, the current mid-point for the nation as a whole.

"The educational crisis is still exceedingly severe," Norton told reporters in discussing the survey made public today.

Navy Club Entertains At Valentine Party

A St. Valentine's party was held Saturday night by members of the Marion Navy club and their wives which was reminiscent of "torpedo boat" days. The Navy club, which has been decorated to represent a ship at sea, was designed (as were the "torpedo boats") to accommodate only its specified crew.

Mrs. Francis Layton was presented the "Lucky Lady" award while "chow" and refreshments were served by "mess-cooks" John Coleman, Harold Haughn, Alfred Whittington and Forest Roush.

There was an entertainment program which included music by Carl Prusnek, local Navy recruiter. Others on the program were Hal Pickett, Evelyn Reynolds, Sara Pickett and Jean Watt.

A "sociable" is being given by the auxiliary tonight following the Navy club vs. V.F.W. basketball game.

Two Foxes and Hawk Bagged by Hunters

Hunters in the Green Camp community bagged two foxes and one hawk in the Saturday afternoon hunt conducted by approximately 25 hunters. Two foxes escaped. The men met at the town hall in Green Camp for a dinner served by Mt. Olive Grange at noon.

The foxes and hawk were turned over to the junior and senior classes of the Green Camp school and proceeds will be used for class activities.

The foxes, which seem to be numerous, are killing poultry on various farms in the community and in some instances have killed sheep the farmers report.

Bowles Proposes Cure For Depression Ills

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 16—Chester Bowles, former OPA administrator, today proposed an extensive federal program which he said "can modify, to a major extent, the recession which our past mistakes have made inevitable."

"During the last few weeks," he told the United States conference of mayors, "we have all witnessed what may be the beginning of the second cycle of the old dismal cycle of economic boom and bust.

"The prices of grains have dropped sharply, and so have the prices of many securities. It is possible, of course, that the commodity markets will recover and that confidence will be temporarily restored."

In a message to the mayors of 250 U. S. cities yesterday President Truman urged congressional curbs on inflation and enactment of a long-range housing bill.

His Hair Turns White But Not from Worry

By The United Press

VINCENNES, Ind. — Spectators attending the murder trial of Lawrence Johnson noted that his hair had turned white. He was jailed two months earlier on a charge of shooting a prisoner.

It was reported that worry over the trial had caused the former Oakland City, Ind., night marshal's hair to turn white. But a few weeks after the case got under way the defendant's attorney offered an explanation.

Johnson hadn't been able to obtain any dye for his hair while he was confined in jail.

In mild cases, discovery and elimination of the practices which bring on the attacks is sufficient to banish them. Sometimes, it is necessary to use sedative drugs for a while. In those instances where these measures do not produce a cure, surgery may be attempted.

To my surprise, I discovered quite recently that I am one of those persons who have a sensitive carotid sinus. I was at the Mayo Clinic for my semi-annual check-up, when Dr. Harry S Smith asked me to sit down and tip my head back. Then he pressed his thumb just below the angle of my jaw. This is the classic test for sensitive carotid sinus and I responded in the classic manner, passing out then and there.

In a case like my own, forewarned is forearmed. Anybody who suspects that he may have such a condition, should have an examination made at once, particularly if he drives an automobile. The real danger lies in those cases where the condition is not known to exist until after it has shown itself in a sudden and unexplained fainting attack.

Sometimes, it is true, the loss of consciousness may be preceded by weakness, dizziness, spots before the eyes, pallor and excessive sweating, but attacks may also come out of the blue without any previous warning.

During an attack, the breath comes deeper and occasionally convulsions occur. As a general rule, however, unconsciousness lasts only a few minutes.

This disorder occurs more frequently after middle age than in youth and is more common in men than in women. A diagnosis can usually be made from the description of the attacks or by use of the test I described earlier.

The number of attacks and their severity will depend upon the sensitivity of the carotid sinus and upon the causes which bring on the attacks.

Persons who have this condition should avoiding stooping, if possible, and sudden turning of the head. They should not look upward or make other movements which cause constriction of the neck.

While the condition is not serious in itself, it carries with it such grave danger of accident and produces so much discomfort that it should be promptly treated, either with phenobarbital drugs in mild cases, or nerve cutting operations in those which are more severe.

HEART PATIENT RETURNS HOME

New Plans for Happy Life Open for Canton, Ohio, Girl.

By The Associated Press

CANTON, O., Feb. 16—Betty Lee Woolridge lay in bed today resting and making plans—plans for a life that now stretched ahead of her for years instead of days.

The 21-year-old Canton girl came home yesterday from Charleston, S. C., where she staked her life on a rare heart-valve operation. She won, the doctors say, and predicted she soon could lead a nearly normal life.

"I know I am going to be all right again," said Betty. "I'm in no hurry to get completely well. I'm going to rest and take it easy."

And those plans? Well, Betty says:

"I think I'd like to be a receptionist in a doctor's office. They tell me I shouldn't do very strenuous work, but I think I could do something like that."

The girl was a clerk at the Timken Roller Bearing Co. plant when her illness became serious in May, 1946. When she left here last Jan. 18 for Charleston, the doctors gave her only a year to live. Scar tissue, an after-effect of rheumatic fever, was closing over a vital heart valve.

The obstruction was removed in a rare and dangerous operation that lasted an hour and 35 minutes. Dr. Horace Smithy, 34, assistant professor of surgery at the Medical College of South Carolina, was the surgeon.

Betty read in her newspaper about Dr. Smithy's experiments with the heart valves of dogs. And she told Dr. Smithy:

"Why use dogs when you can use human beings? If anything happened to me, you might have learned something which could help someone else."

After he saw her off at the Charleston airport, Dr. Smithy explained to reporters Miss Woolridge "must always be considered a heart patient" but that operation relieved "a considerable amount of strain due to the blocked valve."

The operation demonstrated, the doctor said, that "it can be done with seriously ill persons." Now, he said, "we must look for long-term results. We cannot say anything definite for five years or more, but we expect to perform the same operation on other patients in the near future."

CALLED TO BE WITNESSES

John 15:27. And you shall bear witness, because you have been with me."

THE ministry of bearing witness is unavoidable to those to whom Christ has become a redeeming reality.

There is an interesting story in the Old Testament of the four lepers who stole out of the besieged city of Samaria one night to get food and discovered that the Syrians had fled. In and out among the tents they went, feasting their eyes on the plunder, until suddenly one said: "Stop, we do not well. This day is a day of good tidings and we hold our peace. We must get back to the city at once and tell the good news."

The early Christians did not hold their peace. It was a grim and terrifying world in which they lived, but so full were their hearts of God's great love in sending His Son to become the Saviour of men, that they shared the good news with the world. The Gospel of Jesus Christ is the hope of the world, let us give it out. This is a time of good tidings. Send the good news on.

Says Tito's Government Makes Dupes of British

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Feb. 16—Marshal Tito's government has been duping the British about Slovenian displaced persons in British-occupied Germany, claims Dr. Miha Krek.

Dr. Krek, deputy minister of the refugee Yugoslav government in London during the war, made the assertion in a speech before a meeting sponsored by the Committee of 100. The committee is a branch of the League of Catholic Slovenian Americans.

Displaced Slovenes in the British zone are arrested and "painfully investigated" whenever Tito's government charges them with being former Nazis, said Dr. Krek.

He declared such charges are Communist devices to embarrass the British.

Movie 'Oscars' Are Nominated

Picture "Gentleman's Agreement" May Take 7 Awards; Vote Due in March.

By The Associated Press

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 16—"Gentleman's Agreement" stands a chance of winning seven "Oscars" when the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences presents its annual awards March 20.

The picture, a 20th Century Fox Production with anti-Semitism as its theme, and seven persons connected with it were nominated in seven categories yesterday.

More than 12,000 members of the motion picture industry participated in the preliminary nominating poll and ballots for final 1947 winners will be mailed to 1,633 members of the academy March 1.

"Gentleman's Agreement" was nominated for best picture and its stars, Gregory Peck and Dorothy McGuire, were named in the best actor and actress competition.

Others connected with the picture who received nominations were: Elia Kazan, for directing; Anne Revere and Celeste Holm, for supporting actresses; Moss Hart, for best written screen play and Harmon Jones, for film editing.

Competition To Be Close

Close competition is expected all the way down the line, however. Opposing "Gentleman's Agreement" for best picture are "The Bishop's Wife" (Samuel Goldwyn, RKO Radio), "Crossfire" (RKO Radio), "Great Expectations" (J. Arthur Rank, British) and "Miracle of 34th Street" (20th Century Fox).

For the best acting awards, Peck, John Garfield ("Body and Soul"), Ronald Colman ("A Double Life"), William Powell ("Life with Father") and Michael Redgrave (Mourning Becomes Electra") were named among leading men.

Actresses competing for the coveted award for leading ladies will be Loretta Young ("The Farmer's Daughter"), Susan Hayward ("Smash-Up, the Story of a Woman"), Miss McGuire, Rosalind Russell ("Mourning Becomes Electra") and Joan Crawford ("Possessed").

Only Former Winner

Miss Crawford is the only former winner nominated. She won the "Oscar" two years ago for "Mildred Pierce." Peck and Miss Russell were nominated last year for the awards won by Fredric Marsh ("Best Years of Our Lives") and Olivia DeHavilland ("To Each His Own").

Nominees for other major awards include:

Best supporting actress—Miss Holm, Miss Revere, Ethel Barrymore ("The Paradine Case"), Gloria Grahame ("Crossfire") and Marjorie Main ("The Egg and I").

Best directing—Henry Koster ("The Bishop's Wife"), Edward Dmytryk ("Crossfire"), George Cukor ("A Double Life"), David Lean ("Great Expectations") and Mazur.

In addition to the British-made "Great Expectations," two other foreign films came in for consideration. "Shoe Shine," made in Italy, brought writers Sergio Amidei, Adolfo Franci, C. G. Viola and Cesare Zavattini nominations for the best original screenplay award. Fergus McDonnell was nominated for editing "Odd Man Out," a British film.

KAISER-FRAZER TO SUE BANKING FIRM

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 16—Kaiser-Frazer Corporation is preparing a $7,762,500 suit in the state supreme court here against Otis & Co., Cleveland banking firm, in connection with the withdrawal of a stock offering.

Notice of intention to file the suit—perhaps today—was served Saturday on the secretary of state at Albany as legal agent for all firms licensed to do business within the state.

Otis and the First California Company of San Francisco were joint managers of a syndicate which offered 900,000 shares of new Kaiser-Frazer common stock Feb. 4 but later withdrew the offering after it had been sold.

The underwriters did not exercise an option for an additional 600,000 shares. The 1,500,000-share issue was planned to net the automobile firm $17,220,625 and permit it to increase production from 1,000 cars a day to 1,500.

Papers filed with the secretary of state said Kaiser-Frazer would allege that the Otis firm:

1. "Without justification or excuse repudiated" a contract to buy 337,500 shares of Kaiser-Frazer common for $3,881,250.
2. "Maliciously induced" First California to cancel a contract for the same amount.
3. "Inspired" a Kaiser-Frazer stockholder to halt the issue of 1,500,000 shares of new stock, using this as grounds to terminate the contracts.

Congressman Would Lift Tobacco Seed Embargo

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16—Rep. Reid F. Murray (R-Wis) said today Marshall plan costs could be cut nearly one billion dollars by lifting "an embargo on export of tobacco seed."

The state department has informed him, he said, that nearly 2,000,000,000 pounds of tobacco is to be exported at a cost of $911,100,000 under the long-term European recovery plan.

"The total value of tobacco exports under the plan for the first 15 months will be $262,500,000," Murray added in a prepared house speech.

He has introduced legislation to repeal a bill passed in 1940 placing an embargo on exports of tobacco seed.

"This was the most vicious trade barrier ever erected in the history of our country," Murray said.

"This legislation was passed when Cordell Hull, from the tobacco state of Tennessee, was secretary of state and Henry Wallace was secretary of agriculture.

Hal Boyle

A challenge to ... A challenge to ... behind ... what he did.

All there is to ... go by now are ... the official ... and war de... and the ... they left.

At the age ... 18 Thomas ... Joseph Kava... nagh, a Brook... lyn boy of good ... family, tried to hold up a Manhattan jewelry store watchman with a toy pistol.

Perhaps because of his youth he was charged only with petty larceny. He pleaded guilty and received an indeterminate sentence.

War gave him the opportunity to redeem himself and he made good in full measure.

He served in Africa and Italy. In that long forgotten war up the Apennines he was a front-line platoon commander for the veteran 168th infantry regiment.

Of all combat men platoon leaders have the highest mortality in battle. They have the lead where the metal flies thickest. Gen. George S. Patton once bluntly told a group: "Gentlemen, your duty is to be killed."

THOMAS JOSEPH KAVANAGH wasn't killed. But he did get a purple heart for wounds in action. Among his other decorations were three that are given only for personal bravery above the call of duty—the Silver Star, the Bronze Medal and an Oak Leaf Cluster.

I don't know what he fought the Germans with—pistol, rifle, machine gun or mortar — but he fought them long, hard, often and well. And he learned how to use weapons that were loaded. He must also have seen men die, and gained that protective indifference to the sight of dead man all doughboys have to get or go crazy.

When he came home he left the Army with an honorable discharge and a good conduct ribbon.

NEIGHBORS SAID HE WAS rather silent and aloof but so are many boys back from war.

Last Thursday evening Thomas Joseph Kavanagh walked into the Trans-Canada Air Lines office just off Fifth avenue. His hand was in a brown paper grocery bag and he pointed it at the clerk.

"Here I am again," he said. "This is a stickup."

The clerk immediately recognized Kavanagh as the man who held him up last month and took nearly $1,000. Two detectives were in a back room waiting for just such a return call.

They stepped out of separate doors and as Kavanagh raised his arm menacingly they began firing. One bullet hit him in the head, two in the chest.

He fell dead. When they pulled his hand from the paper bag, they saw clutched in the ex-war hero's fist—a toy pistol.

LATER KAVANAGH'S FATHER was brought to identify the body. Police told him they also held his son responsible for three other lone robberies of the Colonial Airlines office. The gray-haired father held out his son's honorable Army discharge and shook his head in wordless grief. He said Kavanagh only recently had enrolled in a university under the GI bill of rights.

Sigmund Janas, president of Colonial Airlines, sent a check for $500 to the two detectives—one of whom had been wounded by the other's crossfire.

"This example of what can happen to any individual who thinks he can take anything he wants at the point of a gun without working for and earning it," Janas said, "should teach others a lesson."

But what is the thing we don't know? What can make a man bravely risk his life time after time for his country—and then toss it away in a futile bluff with a toy weapon.

What gave Thomas Joseph Kavanagh the courage to be a standout hero in war yet left him without the long anonymous valor with which millions of other veterans are working out the problems peace brought them?

Death holds his answer.

Self-Help Incentive

WHILE Secretary of State Marshall continues to warn against the danger of "half-hearted" aid to Europe, the senate foreign relations committee is trying to guard against the danger of "half-hearted" cooperation by the European nations receiving the help.

Thus it the stated purpose of the committee in reporting out a bill limiting aid to $5,000,000,000 for the first 12 months, to slash drastically the four-year program asked by the state department. If at the end of a year Europe is provided to the beginning of U.S. aid, then further aid will be forthcoming. The bill gives the administration of aid incentive to qualify themselves for further aid by self-help. It does not cut the scale of aid recommended by the state department but only the extent of the first authorization.

Actual funds, of course, are another matter. They must be voted separately. Those who feel that $5,300,000,000 is too much for 12 months will have full opportunity to state their case in both the senate and house, not only during debate on the bill authorizing that amount but during debate later on the bill to appropriate the money.

Homegrown Reds Puzzled

AMERICAN Communists find themselves in a dilemma. They don't know whether to cheer or sneer at current price drops.

"Industry set for crash," says a Communist Daily Worker headline, yet on an inside page the paper analyzes current price declines and finds they amount to very little.

The Communists, of course, are hoping fervently there is a repetition of the 1929 debacle. Many a dampened finger is held up to learn from what direction the economic winds are blowing. If the current wave of price cutting is a minor readjustment rather than the symptoms of a depression, the Communists will be disappointed. They are staking their chances in this country on an economic collapse.

Meanwhile, they scoff at price reductions as negligible, hoping at the same time the reductions are the first signs of the collapse they are praying for.

Ohio Joins the Parade

THE move for a community-property tax law is materializing in Ohio. State Representative James J. Barton, Cleveland Republican, indicates he will endeavor to have Ohio join the growing list of states taking advantage of the plan.

Community-property laws authorize family income to be listed as being earned half by the wife and half by the husband. To families with annual incomes of more than $3,000 this results in savings which grow progressively larger, the higher the bracket.

However, congress may move more swiftly than Ohio in making the community-property law nationwide, thus equalizing the tax burdens of married couples in all states. This is almost certain to be a part of the new tax bill.

Perhaps more important in the long run will be the incidental effects of such a federal law. It will encourage marriage by giving bachelors and widowers a new incentive to find mates; it will shift the tax premium from divorce to marriage; it will halt the flight of capital to community property states, and will reduce the vast number of federal tax cases involving defendants who are attempting to reduce taxes by means of family trusts and partnerships.

This Teeming World

A STATE department bulletin says that in spite of natural and man-made catastrophes, 17,000,000 inhabitants were added to the world's population in each year of the last decade. Now the population increase is up to 21,000,000 a year, and improved health programs are sending that figure higher.

We have been so obsessed with death in the last eight years that little or no attention has been given to news of life. Japan, under our complaisant rule, is adding a million new inhabitants a year. Puerto Rico, already with twice as many people as it can comfortably support, will have increased its population from 2 to 3 millions by 1960. All over the world, the rate of population growth, about 0.9 per cent, is the highest in history. World population, already above 2,000,000,000, will have passed 2,500,000,000 by 1960.

The lesson in this is that the time is very near when every section of the world will have to pull its own weight in the struggle for survival. The world's peoples will be interdependent but they will be able to give no more than they can get. The time for free-loading is passing. Compassion, sentimentality, call it what you will, will soon be outmoded. The improvident, the lazy and the pauper nations will yield to the inexorable push of Malthus' law that starvation, pestilence and war will prune the populations that can't feed themselves.

Porter beer received its name because its principal consumers after its development were porters and other members of the laboring classes.

Scanning the Record

By George E. Sokolsky

Palestine Called the Real Test of UN.

SOKOLSKY

THE United Nations tested its power in Palestine and failed. The United States and other nations which had supported the plan of partition, during the debate in the United Nations and in the Arab states, made it clear that they would not use force to carry out the decision of the United Nations. The British government, in failing to make a separate agreement with the Arabs, made it clear that it would not use force to carry out the decision of the United Nations. The United Nations, in failing to provide a police force, made it clear that it would not use force to carry out its decision. It might just as well not have spoken.

Not Equipped for Action

But the United Nations lacks an Army, Navy, Air Force and all the machinery for enforcing its decisions. It has no means for the establishment of partition of Palestine. It has no means for maintaining order in Palestine when the British leave. It has taken an historic stand, solving a thousand-year-old question, but has not even a police to uphold it.

It is very doubtful whether the United States, Soviet Russia or Great Britain give any genuine encouragement to the establishment of an armed force of the United Nations. They all fear the consequences for tremendous use of effective interference by the United Nations in their particular policies. What would it mean, a quarter of a century from now, if a UN army were on the move? Maybe good; maybe, bad. Who can say? Therefore, nothing important has been done to make it possible for the United Nations to enforce its decisions in Palestine or anywhere else.

Things Not Foreseen

The arguments against the use of force appear to rest on the Palestine question of the hour. It might have been Korea, China, Indonesia, Greece, any country. But Palestine is the rock upon which UN stands or falls. And UN is not ready. All of this could have been foreseen at San Francisco. It could have been foreseen at Yalta and Potsdam. Subservience to the capacity to act promptly and to act effectively in advance of a crisis. Apparently there was too little statesmanship at San Francisco.

Political and economic pressure is forcing the United States, in a campaign year, to meet this problem. But political parties and every politician of any stature have asserted their adherence to the Jewish side of the Palestinian question. This has been true of both political parties since the days of Woodrow Wilson and Henry Cabot Lodge. It is true of Harry Truman. Nevertheless, the government of the United States is actually supporting the Arab side. General Marshall's denials to the contrary notwithstanding. It has assisted the Arab states to arm but has placed an embargo on arms purchased for the Jews. The reason behind this, as it was President Roosevelt's reason for supporting the Arab league, is the importance of near eastern oil, particularly the oil of Saudi Arabia. The United States has a huge investment in that area. Even more, the United States, uncertain of its relations with Soviet Russia, needs that oil for war. It wants to be sure that Russia does not develop an economic and possibly a political enclave in the Arabic world. The United States does not want to be defeated for lack of oil.

Alarming Prospect

When all this is added up, the total is horrifying. The British will withdraw. The Jews and Arabs will murder each other. The United Nations will do nothing. Nobody will do anything. The United Nations will shrink in prestige to next to nothing. The pattern will be formed for more bloodshed, more genocide throughout the world. And it is said that World War II settled something.

Essence of Aid Maintained

By Walter Lippmann

BY unanimous vote of the Senate committee there is now before Congress a bill to carry out what might fairly be called the Marshall-Vandenberg plan. Nothing essential, it would appear, has been sacrificed that was in the original conception or in the State Department's proposals, and in important respects there have been additions and improvements.

The administrative provisions are a decided improvement, making the bill not only more acceptable to Congress but in fact more workable. In cutting the period of the appropriations from 15 months to 12, the bill in effect stipulates that the new administration and the new Congress elected this autumn shall have the duty and the right to review the whole program early next winter.

LIPPMANN

This amendment is sound in principle in that it treats the election with full respect, and it is to the European governments that they have time to start on the program but no time to waste in demonstrating that they really mean to do what they agreed to do. For the program will have to be reviewed next winter.

On the other hand, the bill does not reduce the dollars available to them during the first year. The dollars would be available at the rate of five hundred millions a month, which is what the original Marshall plan called for.

Maintain Rate

Every effort should be made in the Senate and House not to reduce this rate, for on an operation of this kind an adequate action in the early stages will be the truest economy. To provide certain aid promptly offers the best prospect of relieving the tension of the economic and political crisis in Europe and thus to get European recovery and reconstruction moving.

The provision in the Senate bill for an advance of one billion from the RFC is also most useful. It will mean that once Congress has approved the program, it will not be disturbed by the fact that it takes years to long for the appropriations committee to act. It will thus uphold the interest of the taxpayer in the flow of necessary supplies, like that at the lowest end, will be greater.

The new preamble, which contains a declaration in favor of a customs union, is perhaps not so clear or so forthright as it might have been, and it could perhaps be improved by amendment from the floor. A customs union, though eventually desirable no doubt, is in many ways the most difficult kind of union to achieve soon.

Without political union it will meet resistance from the governments thinking of their national security and also from legitimate vested interests which have been established behind the existing tariff walls.

It would probably be better to take the line which Gov. Dewey advocated in his Lincoln Day speech, and to state clearly that the ultimate objective of the program will be attained only by European union—not "western union" but European union.

Decision for Europeans

If this purpose is stated in carefully considered words, there should be no great risk of its being misunderstood abroad. It would not be hard to make it quite plain that the United States is not attempting to impose political unity upon Europe but only to facilitate it, and that the form of the unions is for Europeans to determine.

But, if not in the preamble then at least in the debate and through diplomatic channels, it could be made plain why the United States of America is so interested in the formation of a united states of Europe. It is because it wishes to do away with the threat of a world war in which Europe would be the battlefield, no one a true victor, and all mankind the victims.

There will be no war if Europe recovers not only from the economic devastation of the last war but also from the political weakness which followed it. A strong Europe is indispensable to the security of all—including the Russians and ourselves — security against the menace of a world war.

Daily Bible Thought

But some of us erect a whole pantheon of petty gods that we worship. Some of these gods are hideously ugly. Banish these false gods and open the eternal one. "There is no God beside me, a just God and a Savior, there is none beside me."—Isaiah 45:21.

Takes the Jackpot!

How Sore Are Those Deep Southerners?

They Might Throw 1948 Election Into House of Representatives.

CONSERVATIVE southern Democrats, peevish about the policies of the New Deal under Franklin D. Roosevelt and now peevish at the Truman administration's warmed-over versions, are outraged by the President's message to congress on civil liberties.

The message asked for federal laws against lynching, poll taxes, discrimination in employment and segration in transportation. It thumped the sorest places in the deep south's anatomy of prejudice against Negroes—prejudice that southerners claim is unavoidable and northerners insist is intolerable.

Some southerners are suggesting that the south run its own candidate for president next November, on the grounds that Mr. Truman has given them a gratuitous insult in a play for votes in northern big cities. As they see it, he is trying to out Wallace Henry Wallace by whipsawing the states that are the backbone of the Democratic party.

Senator Eastland of Mississippi has declared: "The South will have to protect itself in the electoral college."

Representative Rivers of South Carolina thundered: "The solid south one of these days is going to rise up and surprise some of its solid-headed leaders who think the south is still in the bag."

Senator Overton of Louisiana published a letter to a constituent: "We can . . . organize a southern Democratic party of our own and vote for its electors."

Precedent in 1860

Many Americans forget that the south bolted the Democratic party once, thereby giving the presidency to Abraham Lincoln, certainly an ironic consequence. In 1860, after refusing to accept Stephen A. Douglas, the regular Democratic nominee, the south put together its own ticket, assuring the election of a Republican.

What the cooler heads in the south apparently want today isn't another experience like that but a candidate to take electoral votes away from Mr. Truman for bargaining purposes on legislative proposals such as those recently proposed. If the bargaining were successful, the votes then could be cast for Mr. Truman.

The difficulties of such a plan, however, would be almost insurmountable.

First, it assumes the Republican candidate would not get a clear majority in the electoral college.

Second, it assumes congress would let electors chosen for one candidate vote for another.

The Constitution does not specify when electors shall cast their votes; the date is fixed by congress. The date for 1948 will be fixed by a congress controlled by Republicans. The 20th amendments sets Jan. 3 as the date for the newly-elected congress to convene and Jan. 20 for a new presidential term to begin. Though the three electoral votes since adoption of the amendment have been transmitted to the newly elected congress, the present congress could provide that it, not the new congress, should receive the 1948 votes.

Constitutional Provision

As to the count itself, the constitution prescribes that it shall be before a joint session of the senate and the house. Under the circumstances, congress has full power to decide what electoral votes to accept, not to reject.

An act of Feb. 3, 1887 forbids congress to reject electoral votes of a state certified by its governor to congress at least six days prior to the counting of the electoral votes of all states. But congress could amend the 1887 act by majority vote in each branch—for instance, by providing that a vote for one candidate cast by an elector elected to vote for another candidate should not be accepted.

If southern states ran a candidate of their own in November and if the Republican candidate fell short of an electoral majority, the election would be thrown into the house of representatives, where each state would be entitled to one vote, regardless of population.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Elmer Has a Warning for the President

MR. HARRY TRUMAN, THE WHITE H[OUSE]

Dear President:

Well I see that among other things, congress approved the proposal that you start a campaign to get the people of America to save money, but I question whether you can accomplish this. It is a job for Hercules and even he would have his work cut out in trying to get the people back off the Easy-Come-Easy-Go Road and back on the old Penny-Saved-Penny-Earned Number One or Non-Sucker Route.

Getting them to save wheat is a wrist motion compared to asking them to save money. For fifteen years Washington has been conducting a "Sky's the limit" campaign with the slogans "Prosperity Is Just Around the Corner," "Buy It Now, Pay for It Later," "Live It Up While You Have It to Yourself," "Out into the Sunshine, Let the Rainy Day Take Care of Itself" and "Why Worry, The Government Takes Care of Everything."

If anything has been cracked up, tied up in burlap bags and tossed into the creek it has been the old-fashioned love that simple economy, straight bookkeeping, a family budget and a little frugality in spots are deep and strong legal into the public mind there has been driven with a Washington mallet the notion that a Maharajah on a bender gives the best picture of a proper well-ordered economic life.

* * *

If the government had tossed dough around as if it had a few mazuma it might not have been so bad, but it kept telling people over national hookups that the more they spent the better off they were, and only Tories punks, and civet cats gave a thought to tomorrow.

* * *

The picture the people got of an ideal American was a combination of "Diamond Jim" Brady, Tommy Manville and any Hollywood producer Benjamin Franklin and his thrift preverbs were swept into a corner under the rug and a super Bronx cheer authorized for anybody who kept a tin bank around the house.

* * *

Thrift got kicked across the bazoo by government proclamation three times daily and the greatest gag lines in the country became "Take care of the pennies and the dollars will take care of themselves," "A fool and his money soon parted," etc. If you heard a line like that you thought it was either Finnegan on "Duffy's Tavern" or somebody on the Fred Allen program.

The result, Harry, is that anybody under today thinks a man who has saved $2 for two weeks running is a miser and that many are prohibited by Federal statute. All a young man has seen for the past fifteen years is spend, extravagance deluxe, general disorder and blueprints for getting something for nothing. The Big Spender has been glorified as a Master Mind and no four words in English have become so discredited as "Stop, Look and Listen."

* * *

So I guess, Harry, you had better take a rain check on that save money campaign. It would be the biggest job any man ever tackled. And the rest of us wouldn't know what you were driving at for the first ten years. It is a Republican plot to stall on your physical collapse. Don't say I didn't warn you.

Lots of love,

ELMER.

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Wednesday, Feb. 16, 1938.

Death-dealing cold gripped the Rockies, snow and sleet lay over much of the great plains area, and Oklahoma streams ran at flood stage as a long-delayed blast of winter whipped southward out of western Canada.

Thirty-five couples attended the dance held by the Wednesday Night Dance club, at Schwinger's hall. On the committee were Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. White, chairmen, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin C. Bippus, Dr. and Mrs. John A. McNamara, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Scandling, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kaufman and Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Rosenberg.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Everett Grigsby of Delaware avenue.

Fred B. Reeves, 54, owner of the Reeves Office Supply Co. at Bucyrus, was killed when his truck was struck by a passenger train two miles east of New London.

Mrs. Frank M. Foster of East Church street, Mrs. J. C. Woods of Lafayette street, Mrs. Charles E. Merkel of Mt. Vernon avenue and Mrs. J. A. Dodd of Franklin street left on a motor trip to Williamsburg, Va., Washington, D. C. and other points of interest in the east.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Thursday, Feb. 16, 1928.

Earl T. Smart of Marion was elected president of the Ohio Valley Retail Shoe Dealers association in its annual convention at Columbus.

Eddie Foy, 73, noted comedian, died suddenly in his hotel room at Kansas City, Mo., where he had been appearing in a song and dance act.

Fifteen committees were appointed from membership of the Marion Chamber of Commerce to have charge of various phases of the organization's activities during the year.

A committee consisting of Mrs. J. W. Hargate, Mrs. J. W. Joller, Mrs. Ben Jacoby, Mrs. C. C. Fye and Miss Ruth Edwards nominated Marion County Federation of Women's Clubs officers for the ensuing year headed by Mrs. Donn McNamara as president. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Lewis Uhl on East Center street.

Mrs. Robert Stief was hostess to the A.N.W. club at her home on East Church street.

W. T. Jones, R. T. Lewis and Karl W. Sohl were on a committee from the Marion Real Estate board which visited Galion to assist in arrangements for organizing a board there.

Sudden Thaw

By TRUMAN TWILL

A thaw is an expected event that's never expected, in the sense that floods, hurricanes, droughts and sub-zero weather take human beings by surprise even though they always happen.

There are many kinds of thaws—the kind that comes the world in January, that makes the sap rise in the sugar maples in March, that occurs in Indian summer in October, that clears the stage of the winter scene for the grand finale of spring.

Then there is the thaw that just happens—the change-of-pace thaw—the one the weatherman throws when his battered-up clients are braced for another cold wave. That is the thaw that tests men's ability to cope with the environment. Where are the overshoes? The roof on the bedroom ceiling is soaked with rain. The family car is in mud up to the running board. The contents of its radiator have boiled away in the unaccustomed heat.

Pedestrians rediscover they are not amphibious when confronted with inky pools of water at street intersections. Uncomfortable in his heavy clothing, man sheds it to get relief from rising temperatures and catches cold.

Sodden snow, released from its moorings on rooftops, launches itself on his head. Worse, it melts on the rooftops and, unable to find its way down ice-choked gutters and downspouts, trickles into attics.

Icicles plummet from their fastenings to threaten to impale passersby on gleaming spears. The static certainty of a world frozen solid in immobile changes in the space of a few hours to the fluid uncertainty of a world in unpredictable motion.

Children and dogs seek out quagmires, delighted to them by frost and wallow in them with mindless of the sorrow and censure that will follow the vile act of getting dirty in a world obsessed with cleanliness. Trapped groundhogs, with nowhere else to go, prowl in basements.

Stream beds become too small for the responsibilities as ice and water battle for supremacy. As the good earth comes gradually to life, it is by no means the thing of beauty whose development made the heart grow fonder, but a thing for a traveler in need of a bath and a facial.

It would be better, all things considered, to put off spring for a little while longer and go back to winter from which no one expects anything and consequently can't be disappointed. A thaw is predictable—it's reliable. A thaw isn't

DOGS AND PEOPLE

Editor of The Star: "Man's best friend, but"—everyone says and lots of people believe that a dog is man's best friend. A good dog is a nice pet for children and a good thing to have around the house. Yet he really leads a dog's life in this town.

When a dog, maliciously or otherwise, molests or harms someone other than his master the dog is usually reported to the authorities and then it is punished in some way, usually by death, especially if the dog is vicious.

But what can be done about the boys, and even some men who will constantly torment and stone someone's pet, for no reason, until the dog doesn't know who is friendly and who isn't? Then people say the dog is vicious and should be taken away.

I think that there would be fewer "vicious" dogs in this town if there were fewer "vicious" people.

We have a black and white Border Collie, about 1½ years old. He is a good dog, but has been tormented and stoned constantly by boys and some men in this neighborhood. We got him for a pet for our three girls, but rather than have him become vicious, will gladly give him to someone, preferably on a farm so he can have a good home, and will not be molested by "vicious" people.

Bearing on Future

Must Be Ready To Fight

That being the case, "our future security depends on American willingness to combat anything the communists start anywhere and on our readiness to defend America and its principles as an all out war broke out next to the nearest treasure."

In addition to universal training, Eisenhower called for strong land, sea, and air forces equipped with modern weapons, a lightning-fast force capable of delivering prompt and smashing counter blows, a plan for quick industrial mobilization, and stockpiling of strategic materials.

Because the Army's budget and manpower are primarily devoted to occupation duties, Eisenhower said, defense has taken a back seat. The Army, 100,000 men under strength and lacking in modern weapons, is spread out so thinly around the world that it could muster only the merest handful for possible tactical use.

Meanwhile, atomic and bacteriological weapons have made the United States vulnerable to great

District Scout Court Set for Wednesday

A court of honor for the Marion district, Boy Scouts of America, will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. in the American Legion Dugout on South High street. The combined court is being held by the district in alignment with the new national policy of having a district court where awards will be made.

Approximately 40 Boy Scouts are to appear before the court, which is for all Scouts to be recognized for merit badges and star, life and eagle ranks.

Karl D. Bechtle, Marion district advancement chairman, will be in charge of the program, and serving as moderator will be Juvenile Judge Edward J. Russo, a member of the Marion district committee. Assisting with the presentations will be members of the Marion district commissioners' staff, under direction of Charles Smith, district commissioner.

Parents of the boys appearing before the court are to be present and participate in the ceremony, along with members of the various troops in the district.

FAMOUS PLANE—The Kitty Hawk plane, in which the Wright brothers made aviation history 44 years ago, hangs in London's Kensington Science Museum. A letter found among the late Orville Wright's papers disclosed that he had decided in 1943 he wanted it returned to U. S. But Wright's will—written in 1937—bequeathed plane to the London institution. The latest development came this week when the probate judge of Montgomery county directed executor of the will to arrange for return of the plane to the U. S. (Associate Press Photo)

Honest, I Didn't Know

USED FATS WERE STILL BADLY NEEDED!

Lady, where have you been? Used fats are needed now more than ever, because the shortage of fats and oils today is the greatest in the world's history. Our government warns us that the supply simply cannot meet today's industrial needs. You can help prevent this supply from getting too low by continuing to turn in your used fats.

You say you re-use them for cooking! Fine! But even the drops left after that are worth salvaging. Then how about melting down fat trimmings, skimming gravies? Those tricks yield plenty!

And come to think of it, what other kitchen waste can you convert into good hard cash? It's a point to remember, these days of high food costs! You know, prices butchers pay for used fats are up, on the average. So please . . . don't throw your fats away. Save 'em, and turn 'em in!

Keep Turning in Used Fats

WHICH NATION IS THE CLEANEST IN THE WORLD?

NINETY-FIVE percent of the bath tubs in the world today are installed in American homes. That's an average of one tub to every eleven Americans. Compare this with the average for the rest of the world —one tub to every 1300—and you can readily see why our women enjoy their universal reputation for good grooming.

We'll admit that women in this country may find it easy to apply their simple beauty treatment of soap and water. American science and enterprise have made it possible for most folks here to have a constant supply of pure, sparkling water always on tap.

ITU Files Brief In Taft-Hartley Dispute

By The Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 16—The AFL typographical union said today tardy action cost the government any right to ask for a court crackdown on the union.

Lawyers for the printers argued specifically that the federal court here should not issue an injunction against the union.

They said in a brief that newspapers had complained to the National Labor Relations Board last September that the union and its members were violating the Taft-Hartley act.

Robert N. Denham, NLRB general counsel, issued a formal complaint accusing the union of unfair labor practices Nov. 21, 1947. One of Denham's assistants filed the injunction plea on Jan. 16, 1948.

It asks the court to order the ITU to stop the alleged unfair practices until the NLRB can decide the case.

Bristow, 28, is from Santa Barbara, Calif.

Adm. Charles M. Cooke Jr., commander of U. S. naval forces in the western Pacific and U. S. Ambassador John Leighton Stuart are scheduled to meet in Nanking within 24 hours to discuss the next step. Cooke presumably will acquaint the ambassador with Bristow's story and will report any conditions the Reds may have attached to the Marines' return.

Bad weather which grounded planes throughout China prevented Stuart's departure from Shanghai and Cooke's from Tsingtao today, but they will attempt to reach Nanking tomorrow.

Bristow, the Shanghai informant said, arranged through villagers near Tsingtao to make his beach contact with the Reds.

Haiyang is a small harbor 30 miles northeast of Tsingtao and about 10 miles east of Laiyang, where five Marines were captured Christmas day.

A Communist radio broadcast Friday said one of the five, Pfc. Charles J. Brayton Jr. of Governors Island, N. Y., was fatally wounded. The four captives are Cpl. William L. Pollard, Fort Worth, Pfc. Global Scene

By DeWitt Mackenzie

GENERAL DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER in his final report as U. S. Army chief of staff emphasizes that the solidarity developing among the peoples of North and South America is a gratifying contribution to security in this hemisphere.

That is a gratifying appraisal—double gratifying because it comes from the man whose strategy figured heavily in the winning of the late war. However, he obviously isn't telling us this as an invitation to complacence. On the contrary, he intends it as encouragement for a strengthening of hemispheric solidarity, because he also gives this grave warning:

MACKENZIE

If the Mediterranean nations should lose their independence to totalitarianism, "war * * * would be close to us." And again:

"Our traditional friends in western Europe are in straitened circumstances and some are threatened with strangulation by a militant political party whose obvious purpose is to promote chaos and insurrection for the advantage of an alien ideology. Were those countries to give up the good fight for our common heritage of liberty, and become the pawns of totalitarianism, America's security would be in dire danger."

In short, if the democracies should lose the "cold war" in Europe to aggressive totalitarian communism, the western hemisphere would be next in line of attack. That danger surely ought to be enough to make the nations of North and South America pull together. From the military standpoint solidarity means this, to quote Eisenhower:

"IT IS EVIDENT * * * that a potential aggressor against any nation in either continent could hesitate to launch an attack which he believed would provoke coordinated, hemispheric defense."

The general also points out that the western hemisphere is linked with the British common wealth and western Europe in common basic purpose. The bonds among these nations "weigh heavily as a stabilizing influence" toward world peace. It would be a formidable task for any power to defeat the democracies—if they stand together. And Eisenhower calls upon them to agree that a challenge to the existence of one should be recognized as a challenge to all.

SO HEMISPHERIC solidarity is vital to security. That is the clear writing on the wall, and any nation which disregards it is inviting trouble not only for itself but for Pan-America.

Now of course there's no thought of little countries contributing much in the way of military strength to the common defense. That must be provided by the major nations—primarily the United States. One of the chief contributions of small countries would be to ensure that the enemy didn't use them as a base for any sort of operations.

This means that every nation, big and little, already should be battling the infiltration of Communism. There's no use mincing words, it's totalitarian Bolshevism which we are up against. If it gets a strong foothold in any country of the western hemisphere, that country might be used as a Red base of one kind or another in event of hostilities.

And we shouldn't overlook that solidarity in itself is a mighty defense, for, as Eisenhower indicates, it will make any aggressor hesitate before striking the new world.

PRICES

should not get her hopes too high on saving money on the weekly family eating budget. There will be household savings but probably not enough to make a major difference in the whole family budget.

▶The price level will not go down too far, Coulter believes, and pre-war prices are not in the cards unless labor is ready to take a big cut in current wages.

▶It is too early now, in Nathan's opinion, to say whether this is the start of a business recession, but three or four weeks' time may tell. That depends upon whether farm commodity price changes are going to extend elsewhere in the economy. If there is a recession, "it will be short, sharp and painful—not like the long depression that began in 1929," Nathan said.

▶With good winter crop prospects, we are approaching a temporary bottom in the wholesale prices of grains. A bumper crop this summer could turn these prices still further down until the government was forced to stabilize them with statutory price supports.

"I can't figure why anyone wants to go back to the 1935-1939 price levels, which still were a part of the depression period," Coulter said. "Since we now have so many new obligations—a high national debt, obligations to our fighting men, commitments to Europe—it would be impossible for us to go back to those days and those prices."

The former WPB-CPA economist said that a business recession would depend on whether the government "makes the right decisions." He did not elaborate.

FIRE DESTROYS ASHLEY HOUSE

Gasoline Cooking Stove Explodes, Gutting Interior of Curtis Gale Home.

Special to The Star

ASHLEY, Feb. 16—A fire caused by the explosion of a gasoline cooking stove destroyed the interior of the Curtis Gale home, a converted barn, on East Taylor street at 10 a. m. this morning.

Waneta Gale, 17, eldest daughter of the family was the only member in the home at the time of the explosion and fire. With her was Mrs. Jennings Snydet, a neighbor.

The women were preparing to do the washings of the two families together and were heating the washing water on a gasoline cooking stove which was functioning badly. Both suspected water was present in the fuel tank of the stove. They drained the gasoline tank and were pouring in fresh fuel from an open pan when the fumes from the gasoline were caught by the flame of the still burning stove and exploded. Both were escaped injury.

They tried unsuccessfully to extinguish the flames of the burning gasoline thrown by the explosion by smothering them with flour, then called the Ashley volunteer fire department.

Firemen arrived quickly but the gasoline-fed flames had consumed all the contents of the first floor and were burning the second floor loft, where the family had furniture stored. Firemen extinguished the fire on the first floor but because of the smoke and heat could not attack the second floor blaze from beneath. The crew of the new Ashley fire engine successfully penetrated the roof of the structure and put out the loft blaze by shooting streams of water under 200 pounds pressure directly on the roof at short range.

The entire interior of the building was gutted and all of the family's personal belongings and household goods were consumed by the blaze. Estimates of the extent of the damage were unavailable.

Curtis Gale, father of the family was working as a roofer on a downtown store at the time of the fire. His wife, who is employed as a waitress, was also working, while three young children of the family were in school.

Two Drivers Injured In Collision of Cars

Goebel Walston, 48, of R. 7, Marion and Reece Jones 27, of R. 1, Prospect, were injured in an automobile collision about a mile south of Marion, shortly after 8 a. m. today. Mr. Jones suffered face and chest injuries and Mr. Walston head and chest injuries and a fracture of his right arm. They were removed to the City hospital in the Edwin K. Smith and L. A. Axe & Son, ambulances and following surgical treatment, were discharged. The accident occurred as Mr. Walston was leaving the driveway at his home, according to a report of the highway patrol. The cars were badly damaged.

INSTALLMENT XIX

NEW decisions confronted us in the summer of 1940 as Great Britain's plight on the high seas grew acute.

British Ambassador Lord Lothian came in to see me on Aug. 4, before my departure for White Sulphur Springs, and explained his government's "urgent desire" to purchase from us a number of older type destroyers. Britain, he said, needed them to strengthen what he described as her "present emergency situation."

During my attendance at the Havana conference, the President kept talking to Lothian and Prime Minister Churchill on the subject and also on the question or lease to us by Britain of some of her bases in the Western Hemisphere. The sale or loan of the destroyers had first been suggested by French Premier Reynaud on May 14, only four days after the invasion of France, and by Churchill on the following day.

At one time the President opposed the proposal.

My own feelings are comparative. With the fall of France enormously increased our dangers, we were much more toward disposing of the overage destroyers, especially if their loss to our defenses could be compensated for in other ways, as by our acquiring naval bases. The Navy had long wanted additional bases along the Atlantic. We also felt that, since our destroyers would increase the strength of the British fleet, which stood between the Axis desperadoes and us, this was actually an added protection to ourselves. Furthermore, congress passed an administration bill, the National Defense Act of June 28, 1940, which permitted the sale of naval equipment provided the chief of naval operations certified that it was not essential to the national defense.

ROBERT H. JACKSON

Attorney General of the opinion that President could sell destroyers to Britain.

WHEN LOTHIAN CAME to my office on August 4 I could appreciate Britain's dangers as fully as he could depict them. He said Britain had lost five destroyers during the previous week alone. Destroyers, he pointed out, were vitally important in combatting submarine activities and other enemy action in the English Channel where large warships could not be used to advantage.

He said he had already discussed the question with the President while I was at Havana, and now desired to lay the situation before me in the hope that something might be done within the next few weeks. He added that Britain would be willing to make available to us facilities for naval and air bases in certain British islands adjacent to Central and South America and in Bermuda, as well as for aircraft bases in Newfoundland.

I first explained to Lothian that such facilities would, of course, be for the benefit of all the American Republics. "In keeping with the understandings reached at Havana and at prior conference," I said, "any action taken by the United States would be in cooperation with the other American Republics."

ON THE SAME DAY I sent the President a memorandum relating to the sale of warships and auxiliary vessels. This contained a proposed draft of a bill to be offered in congress which would specifically authorize such sale. In discussing this draft bill with the President, however, we agreed that there might be two objections to sending it to congress—one, that it would stir up considerable isolationist antagonism; the other, that many weeks of discussion might pass before it could be adopted.

Such was the situation when I left Washington. During my three weeks' rest at White Sulphur Springs I had a private telephone line into my apartment there and received daily pouches from the state department, hence closely followed and participated in the destroyers-bases negotiations in the hands of the President and Welles. A few hours after I returned to Washington on August 23, I went to the White House to attend a cabinet meeting.

There the President said to me, "Our negotiations with Britain on the bases and destroyers have bogged down. Please see what you can do."

In talking over the bases with the President, I found he had an amazing personal knowledge of almost all of them. He had either cruised, swum, or fished in those harbors. He knew how many feet deep and wide they were and how many ships they would take.

HE ALSO KNEW the penurious condition of the native population of most of the islands, and consequently did not want to assume the burden of administering those populations. Therefore he had changed during my absence from Washington from his original idea of outright purchase of the bases to that of 99-year leases. I had originally favored outright cession, but was willing to agree to leases instead.

I thereupon undertook the negotiations, determined to push them to completion as quickly as possible.

On the following day, as I was reviewing the negotiations to date, the White House informed me that the British ambassador had an appointment with the President the next evening, a Sunday, and Mr. Roosevelt would like to have me present.

Lord Lothian came in to see me at the office early Sunday afternoon so that we could go over the situation prior to his conversation with the President that evening. He brought up certain objections to the proposals delivered to him on August 19 by Welles as acting secretary. He said his government did not like the American proposal that we have exclusive authority to locate and select the bases we needed, with no voice whatever on the part of Britain. His government also objected to the proposed exchange of the destroyers for the bases, and desired to put the matter in the form of gifts back and forth.

THE DIFFICULTY on this latter point was that Mr. Churchill, in a speech on August 20, had committed himself to an outright gift of leases to the bases. He had not mentioned the destroyers at all. The prime minister felt that a better feeling of cooperation would be created on both sides of the Atlantic by the making of reciprocal gifts instead of a quid pro quo. He also said that the British public would be less likely to scrutinize gifts than an exchange and to say that Britain, in giving away leases to valuable bases, was not getting full value in the receipt of fifty old destroyers.

We had difficulties on our side as well, however. The attorney general, Robert H. Jackson, believed there was legal authority for the President, as commander-in-chief of our armed forces, to sell the destroyers to Britain. But if the President were to do so without special congressional authority, he should be able to satisfy congress that in return for the destroyers, we were obtaining facilities to bases which would clearly give us greater security than would the retention of the fifty destroyers.

More important still was the fact that the President had no authority to make a gift of government property. I so told Lord Lothian.

THAT evening I met Lothian at the White House, and, while we sat together awaiting our appointment with the President, I again emphasized to him that the President had no authority to give away government property.

When the President received us, however, Lothian, to my surprise, seemingly ignoring my statement that the President legally could not make a gift of public property proceeded to present the British proposal.

After Lothian had finished his arguments, I said for the third time to the ambassador, and for the first time to the President, that the latter had no authority whatever to make a gift of public property to any government or individual. Mr. Roosevelt at once agreed with me.

The following morning I called to my office Green H. Hackworth, legal adviser of the state department, and Judge Townsend, of the department of justice, to try to find a way out. After some discussion, Hackworth suddenly suggested that there might be a compromise after all between Churchill's desire for reciprocal gifts and our own legal position that the President could not give away the destroyers but had to get something in return.

SINCE THE BRITISH had not stated precisely what bases they intended to lease to us, why not divide them into two parcels? The first would comprise the bases in Newfoundland and Bermuda. These Britain could lease us as an outright gift. The second would comprise the bases around the Caribbean, strategically more valuable to us because of their nearness to the Panama Canal. These could be leased to us in consideration of the cession of the fifty destroyers.

I saw at once that here was the formula for which we had been looking.

We thereupon set to work to redraft the proposals.

That afternoon Hackworth and Townsend saw the President, who agreed to the compromise.

As finished, our draft began with an assurance from the British government that, if the waters surrounded the British Isles became untenable for British warships, "the British fleet would in no event be surrendered or sunk, but would be sent to other ports of the Empire for continued defense of the Empire."

CHURCHILL HAD already given such assurances in his speech to parliament on June 4, but I wanted a formal repetition because of our transfer of the destroyers to Britain.

Lord Lothian sent me on August 27 a long cable from Churchill to the President. Churchill, signing himself "former naval person," approved the proposal previously submitted by Lothian, which, regarding the leases to all the British bases as outright gifts, had not been acceuptable to us.

Churchill also was ready to give assurances that the British fleet would not be scuttled or surrendered. This would be in the form of a separate exchange of letters between Lothian and me.

With his usual indomitable spirit, he said he did not wish this latter exchange to be published because "I think it is much more likely that the German government will be the one to surrender or scuttle its fleet or what is left of it. In this as you are aware they have already had some practice. You will remember that I said some months ago in one of my private cables to you that any such action on our part would be a dastardly act, and that is the opinion of everyone of us."

Churchill had already stated his objection to publicity concerning these assurances in a cable he sent the President on August 15, when he said: ". . . you will please bear in mind the disastrous effect from our point of view and perhaps also from yours of allowing any impression to grow that we regard the conquest of the British Islands and its naval bases as any other than an impossible contingency. The spirit of our people is splendid."

LOTHIAN HAVING CABLED to London the location of the bases the President had in mind, Churchill agreed and gratuitously added the island of Antigua, in the Caribbean, which he said might be useful as a base for flying boats.

That steaming night of August 27, Lothian, Secretary Knox, and Admiral Stark all appeared at my apartment at about 10:30 o'clock and found me in dressing gown. For more than an hour we four went over the draft. Lothian at first had a few suggestions for revision, but eventually seemed quite satisfied and said he would send the note to his government.

The night of August 29 at 7 o'clock Lord Lothian called at my apartment and left with me his government's counter-proposal. We made a few changes in the text, and I then telephoned Lothian, who came back to my apartment at 10:30. He agreed to our changes.

The following day, August 30, I telephoned the changes to the President at Hyde Park and received his approval.

LORD LOTHIAN, who had spent the weekend in Boston, returned to Washington Monday afternoon, September 2, and came to my apartment at 7 o'clock that evening. There we signed and exchanged the notes confirming the destroyers-bases transaction.

Lothian also handed me his reply to an aide-memoire I had previously given him requesting assurances concerning the disposition of the British fleet.

Lothian stated in his reply: "His Majesty's ambassador is instructed by the prime minister to inform Mr. Secretary Hull that this statement certainly does represent the settled policy of His Majesty's government. Mr. Churchill must however observe that these hypothetical contingencies seem more likely to concern the German fleet or what is left of it than the British fleet."

The last sentence was Churchill's own addition.

Thus were concluded within a week negotiations among the most momentous in our history.

FIVE or six thousand screaming fans with plenty of elbow room—a court big enough to run plenty of capers on, multiple game arrangements—these are the prospects facing Marion basketball next season with the completion of the Marion fairground coliseum . . . And the possibility of ice skating exhibitions, as there for fans of winter sports . . . Stock . . . racing fair time concerts . . . features, all these are possible some time next year.

AS FAR AS BASKETBALL are concerned, the coliseum will be a dandy . . . Tentative plans call for a movable floor big enough for three practice courts, and regular stands to seat some five or six thousand with room for seats to accommodate another thousand if a full house is in prospect . . . With seating capacity as great as that, the chances are that Marion may become the seat of one of the district tournaments, and surely the county tourney . . . Three or four county cage cards would probably be a benefit to all the schools participating. The combined "house" each would draw would out-number the total each could get separately, and would give the county's youngsters a big advantage in playing on a large floor . . . Harding and St. Mary would have a chance to re-introduce basketball to Marion.

THE COLISEUM BUILDING committee is also considering the possibility of providing a freezing unit for making ice so that skating shows can be held.

FRANK FOSTER, chairman of the coliseum building committee which was organized last week, an architect Charles W. Oborn is now completing his drawings for the building. After they are completed and approved, the committee will advertise for bids, and construction will begin . . . . The committee hopes the building will be done in time for winter sports next year.

THE COMMITTEE was made up of men from the county fair board, from the community at large, and from the county commissioners. Members of the committee from the fair board include Clyde Hinamon, W. K. Davis, Dr. J. G. McNamara, Harley A. Mayers, Frank Foster, Earnest Fogle, and Don Clements. Members from the community include Robert White, president of the National City Bank; James G. Lytle, of the Ohio Public Service Co., C. M. Gorby, of the Standard Oil Co. and president of the Pamona Grange, William F. Ehrick of the Huber Co., Bernard C. Maloney, an attorney, and Harley Lewis, a retail merchant. County commissioners on the committee are William Risch, Luther Mitchell, and Carl Lehner.

THE COLISEUM will be located where the art and vegetable building now stand. These two buildings will be moved and used for other purposes, Foster said. The plans call for offices, booths, meeting rooms, shower rooms, and a dining hall.

MEEKER UPSETS PLEASANT, 33 - 31

Morral, Caledonia, LaRue Win Other County Tourney Games

Upsets continued in the Marion county tournament Saturday night as fifth place Meeker came from behind to stomp the first-place Pleasant Township champs of the Marion county league 33 to 31. A basket by Harold W. Lyons Meeker forward at the gun ended Coach Silver's lads the spoilers' victory after Walter Yost had tied the score at 31 all.

In other games Saturday night Morral averaged New Bloomington, 66-22, and on the Morral hardwood and Caledonia dumped Martel from the running with a 74-17 trimming at New Bloomington and LaRue whipped Claridon, 50-30.

The Meeker win put the Montgomery Townshippers in the semi-finals along with Morral, LaRue and Caledonia. The semi-final round will be played Saturday night on the same two floors following consolation round preliminaries. Morral and Meeker will tangle on the New Bloomington floor at 8:30 and LaRue and Caledonia are drawn for the Morral gymnasium at the same time in the Saturday night contests.

The consolation round will start Friday night among the eight losers in last week's games. In the contests with tourney berths at stake and a trip to Westerville still possible four games will be played Friday night. Waldo and Green Camp will tangle at New Bloomington ahead of a Prospect-Kirkpatrick clash. At Morral, Pleasant will try a comeback against Martel and Claridon is booked to tangle with New Bloomington. The winner of the Waldo-Green Camp match will play the winner of the Prospect-Kirk scrap in a preliminary to the LaRue-Caledonia setto at Morral. The winner of the Pleasant-Martel game will meet the winner of the New Bloomington-Claridon tilt at New Bloomington Saturday night as a prelim to the semi-final between Morral and Meeker.

Jump to Lead

Coach Melvin Bernow's Pleasant team jumped off to a 12 to 2 first quarter lead against Meeker Saturday night and led 20 to 11 at the intermission.

The first place team was outscored in the third stanza but still led 20 to 23 at the three-quarter mark.

When the official time out arrived in the final session Pleasant had a 29 to 27 lead, but Yost, six-foot five-inch Meeker center, tied it up at 29 all. Richard Green sank a long shot for Pleasant and Yost again tied the score with a two-pointer. With 10 seconds to go a Pleasant player missed a foul shot and Meeker grabbed the rebound. William took a pass out about the middle of the floor and dribbled to the right of the basket and threw up a shot that went in with the gun sounding while the ball was in the air.

The high-scoring Charles Mayers of Pleasant scored only five points as he found a lid on the basket for one of the few times in a four-year career. Randy Dickason, another Pleasant high point maker also was held to four points. Tom Green, usually a low-scoring Pleasant guard and Jack Merchant, center, got nine points each for the losers. Walter Yost of Meeker was high for the game with 11 points on five goals and a free throw.

Going Easy

In the final game at Morral the host team found the going easy and grabbed a 20 to 5 first quarter lead and at halftime this had become 37 to 9. Coach Norman Weston started his reserves in the second half and the pace slacked but the regulars came back for part of the final session to amass the total 66 to 22 with the help of a basket by a New Bloomington player. Dick Granlee and Dick Baer were high in this contest with 13 points each. Nine of the Morral players scored. Johnson was high for the losers with 8 points.

LaRue had difficulty connecting with the basket in the opening quarter in the Claridon clash but a good defense and foul shooting found them leading 6 to 3 at the first stop after connecting on only one of 17 shots in this round. The pace increased in the second quarter and LaRue led at the intermission 20 to 13.

The west siders still had trouble with the basket in the final half but managed to increase the lead to 34 to 21 at the third quarter. Harold Brocklesby, LaRue center, led the point parade with 13. Bob Pickett was high for Claridon with 10 points. Nine LaRue players scored.

ART VALEPY TO PILOT HARVARD GRID TEAM

By The Associated Press

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 16—The Herculean labor of restoring ancient Harvard to its once lofty intercollegiate football peak rests on the shoulders of 32-year-old Art Valepy with but three years of varsity coaching experience.

The Michigan assistant's acceptance of a three-year contract as successor to the veteran Dick Harlow was announced last night by Athletic Director William J. Bingham. The salary terms were not disclosed. Harlow quit two months ago because of ill health.

As Crimson aide on last year's Rose Bowl championship Michigan staff, Valepy tutored the Wolverine end squad. During the two previous seasons he served as a line coach and chief scout.

Valepy will be in Cambridge for spring football practice on March 1 when the 1948 prospects appear that Harvard's schedule includes Columbia, Cornell, Army, Dartmouth, Holy Cross, Princeton, Brown and Yale.

VETERAN PITCHER DIES. Mordecai "Three - Fingered" Brown, whose crippled looking right hand once tyrannized the batters of the National league, died Feb. 14. Death came to the 71-year-old veteran in Union hospital, in Terre Haute, Ind., after a long illness. (AP Wirephoto.)

Northern Ohio Scholastic Grid League Seeks to Promote Southern Counterpart

By The Associated Press

CANTON, O., Feb. 16—Seven of the 10 finest gridiron powers in northern Ohio scholastic competition would like to see a counterpart of their league in southern Ohio.

The eventual goal would be a game at the end of each season to decide the mythical state championship.

Representatives of the northern Ohio scholastic conference, formed here yesterday, will meet in Columbus next week end with coaches from such southern Ohio schools as Hamilton, Portsmouth, Springfield and Middletown. Their aim will be to promote a southern Ohio scholastic conference.

Loop Members

Three Stark county rivals, Massillon, Canton McKinley and Alliance, plus Mansfield, Steubenville, Warren and Toledo Waite, are members of the northern circuit, and plan to get the loop under way in 1949.

The new league bears the blessing of H. W. Emswiler, Ohio high school athletic commissioner, who telegraphed his sanction to yesterday's organization meeting.

It also has the approval of school boards in six of the seven cities.

In Steubenville, the school board had objected to plans for each league member to play the other six each season. Under the program adopted yesterday schedules will be on a five-game, rotating basis.

There was some doubt whether Steubenville could meet the five-game provision in 1949, because of previous commitments, but it was decided to launch the league next year anyway. Steubenville will work in as many games as possible that year.

Leaders To Battle

If a southern league comes into being, the proposal is to count inter-conference games in each league's standings. The leader in each conference would appear in a championship contest at the end of the season.

Toledo Waite became a member of the northern loop when Barberton—whose Magics were unbeaten in 1947—withdrew from conference plans.

President of the new northern circuit is Augie Morningstar of Mansfield. Heinie Beck of Warren is vice president and Howard Brinker of Steubenville secretary-treasurer. Publicity will be handled by R. T. (Ike) Heise, faculty manager at Massillon.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

by Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 16—Earl Hilligan, the American league tub-thumper, recently pointed out that there'll be some terrific tussles for places on teams in his league when spring begins next month . . . Perhaps it was just a coincidence that most of these tussles centered around first base—and the same condition extends to the National league . . outside of big John Mize, the National league's clout king, it is hard at this time to name even one first baseman who is sure of a major league job . . . The Yankees, for instance, are ready to pit George McQuinn against a wide open field; for the Red Sox it's Jake Jones vs. newly acquired Stan Spence and the Detroit, Chicago and St. Louis American league clubs must depend on newcomers with at least two candidates on each team . . . The National league likely will produce a couple of free-for-alls at first if the Cards' Stan Musial and the Dodgers' Jackie Robinson are returned to the outfield and second base, respectively, and even such fixtures as Earl Torgeson at Boston and Babe Young at Cincinnati will have to defend their jobs . . Okay, you gotta say it—who's on first?

WITHOUT MAKING any fuss over it, Bob Feller gives two scholarship each year to send kids to Morningside college in Iowa. He's been doing it since 1940 . . . Michigan State college is beating the drums to gain an All America basketball rating for Bob Brannum, who has set a college scoring record with a mediocre team.

Mangrum, Demaret To Play Off Tourney Tie

By The Associated Press

HARLINGEN, Tex., Feb. 16—Those old Texas boys, Lloyd Mangrum and Jimmy Demaret meet today for the championship of the lower Rio Grande valley open tournament. First place pays $2,000 and second $1,400.

Debonair Lloyd and fashionplate Jimmy battled to a tie for first place yesterday, each registering 269 for the 72 holes. This was 15 strokes below par for the 6,045-yard Harlingen municipal course. Their pay-off today is 18 holes.

Coming into the last hole, Mangrum appeared to have first money in the bag. Demaret already had finished and Mangrum needed only a par on the 18th to take the title. But his second shot hit on a downgrade in the fairway, and in trying to get out Mangrum topped the ball. He had to use another shot to get on the green, where he missed a 12-foot putt. He went one over par.

Weak A.A.C. Teams To Get Player Transfusion

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Feb. 16—A transfusion of 20 players today brightened 1948 prospects for three weak All American Conference elevens and promised a tighter title chase next fall.

A spokesman said players involved would be named later.

A clean bill was given Ed McKeever in the A.A.C. family by Commissioner Admiral Jonas H. Ingram. McKee sr. was the center of criticism after he quit the University of San Francisco and questioned eligibility of 22 players there.

New York Stock Quotations

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 16—Mild forward inclinations were exhibited by selected stocks today although many market leaders continued to operate at slightly lower levels.

Bidding, mainly by professionals, again was based on the belief that a technical comeback may be overdue. Doubts regarding business progress, in the light of the recent commodity relapse, still inspired the trimming of accounts by some customers.

Dealings reverted to slowness after a fairly active start. Small advances had a shade the majority near midday.

Ahead at intervals were U. S. Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Chrysler, General Motors, International Harvester, Consolidated Edison, General Electric, Du Pont, Allied Chemical, International Paper, Texas Co., Santa Fe, Illinois Central and Chesapeake & Ohio.

Occasional losers included Bethlehem Steel, Glenn Martin, International Telephone, Phelps Dodge, Lowe's and Gulf Oil.

STEEL UNAFFECTED BY BREAK IN PRICES

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Feb. 16—The recent break in commodity and stock markets has had little effect on demand for steel, said the magazine Steel today.

It reported the drop has resulted only in "certain psychological influences," mainly a softening of scrap sellers' resistance to price changes.

"Requirements for most (Steel) products are so far in excess of supply that whatever easing in pressure may have resulted has been difficult to discern," the magazine said.

Whether any change in the trend of steel prices would result in the coming months must await the reaction of labor to the price break in commodities, said Steel.

Leaders in the industry "do not expect a business tailspin," it reported, but feel recent developments in commodities were a "needed readjustment which should prove salutary on the whole economic situation."

Producers and consumer are "less concerned" than in recent weeks over the possible effect on steel supply of the voluntary allocation program, the trade publication observed.

The national steelmaking rate last week tapered off to 93 per cent of rated capacity, down one point, because of continued cold weather and the resulting problems in fuel and transportation.
